

2-Year Career Preparation Course

Learning Outcomes

This course aims to develop reliable practical Japanese language proficiency and communication skills for use in society, while cultivating the practical ability to identify issues and act flexibly and proactively in collaboration with people from diverse value systems and cultural backgrounds. The following learning outcomes have therefore been established.

1. Possess Japanese language proficiency equivalent to CEFR B2 (Step 11)
 - Handle workplace and external interactions, including explanations, consultations, and negotiations
 - Accurately communicate one's opinions and intentions according to the purpose and situation, and communicate smoothly with others
 - Collaborate in multicultural environments while showing consideration for differing positions and backgrounds, and build relationships of trust
2. Take proactive action toward employment and career development
 - Independently collect and organize information about industries and occupations, and make choices aligned with one's goals
 - Understand the roles and responsibilities of a working professional and build one's career through continuous learning

Eligibility

Applicants who come to Japan for the purpose of employment, have completed a university degree or higher, and possess Japanese language proficiency equivalent to CEFR A1 (approximately JLPT N5).

Subject Overview

Comprehensive Japanese	Through the five language activities of reading, listening, speaking (presentation and interaction), and writing, this subject develops practical Japanese language proficiency needed for tasks such as understanding specialized lectures and presenting opinions logically.
Career Development	While reviewing learning progress and adjusting plans, students learn interview manners and basic response techniques. Through repeated mock interviews and self-assessment, they develop practical interview skills that enable them to communicate their ideas and strengths calmly and effectively.
Multicultural Coexistence	Through discussion with others, students learn to accept different perspectives, independently formulate questions, deepen their own thinking, and express their ideas.
Japanese for Work	In addition to developing practical workplace skills such as coordinating schedules with business partners, reporting progress, and visualizing work processes, students analyze and compare news to understand social issues from multiple perspectives and develop logical communication skills for exchanging opinions based on evidence such as data and examples.
Exam Preparation	Through practice with JLPT (Japanese-Language Proficiency Test) questions, students acquire advanced vocabulary and grammar, develop the ability to interpret complex texts and audio materials, and learn answer strategies suited to the examination format.